WAUKESHA, Wis. – As previously announced, Waukesha County Public Health Division will hold a free, H1N1 vaccination clinic this Thursday, January 7th. An additional free, public clinic has now been scheduled for Thursday January 14th.

Both clinics are intended to provide both the intranasal and injectable H1N1 vaccine to all Waukesha County residents on a first come, first serve basis at the Waukesha County Expo Center, 1000 Northview Road, Waukesha, from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. or until the vaccine runs out.

Though the general public is invited to attend the clinics, Public Health would like to emphasize that it is recommended that those in the targeted groups, as identified by the Centers for Disease Control, receive the vaccine. The targeted groups include:

- Pregnant women
- Persons who live with or provide care for infants age 6 months or younger (examples: parents, siblings, daycare providers)
- Healthcare and emergency medical services personnel
- All people from 6 months through 24 years of age
- Persons 25-64 years of age with conditions associated with higher risk of complications from influenza

In the event that the clinic is rescheduled information will be posted on the Waukesha County website (www.waukeshacounty.gov/pandemicflu) and announcements will be posted on local television and radio stations.
